General terms

Preferential price list Private banking inclusion criteria

Characteristics of Private banking clients

Privileges are granted to a client provided the total assets (cash and positions on shares, mutual funds, bonds, insurance, investment products etc.) of the latter are equal to or exceed five hundred thousand Euros (€500,000).

Induction criteria – Based on account balances

The calculation of criteria, which are mentioned above and constitute criteria for inclusion in the terms of the preferential price list Private banking, takes into account balances of deposit accounts, time deposits and securities held in an investment portfolio. Any amount of €500,000 and above for Private banking clients, is the sum of the balances of the above accounts, products and investment portfolios of which the client is primary or 1st beneficiary, or co-beneficiary.

Important notes

1. The bank may, without notice, revise and/or amend or remove at any time the criteria for inclusion of a client in the preferential price list Private banking and any privileges offered to such clients. Clients may obtain information on the current inclusion criteria and privileges from their local branch officers, as well as officers providing customer services to the relevant bank clients.
2. The bank will periodically evaluate its relationship with the client and whether such client continues to meet the criteria for inclusion in the preferential price list Private banking. In case the client no longer meets the requirements specified by the bank regarding his/her classification as Private, or if the client is in default of any of his/her obligations (e.g. loan obligation) towards the bank, or the client registers for another bank service, the bank will be entitled to declassify such client as Private and inform him/her accordingly by any appropriate means. In such a case, the respective preferential price list Private banking will no longer be applicable to the client's transactions with the bank. Any failure or delay on the part of the bank to exercise the aforementioned right may not be considered or interpreted in any manner and under any circumstances as a waiver from such right.

This price list will be subject to periodic review by the bank.
